Foot Ties How to Foil Thieves Busy During Holidays

Colonel Alfred F. Foot, State Commissioner of Public Safety, today issued four recommendations to foil pickpockets and thieves during the holiday season. They are:

- 1—Shoppers, particularly women, should avoid crowds.
- 2—Do not carry large sums of money in handbags.
- 3—When leaving home, look all the doors and windows, including those on the second floor.
- 4—Do not leave notes outside your door when you will return. This tells a thief just how much time he has in which to work.

SHUMAN PROUD OF SEWING ON BUTTONS

Women Deny "Nightgown Parties" Mentioned in Court at Worcester

By HAZEL CANNING
Harold A. Shuman, wealthy Clinton manufacturer, is "husband on the installment plan," according to his wife, Mrs. F. Shuman.

He is "just a good fellow, giving a lift in his automobile to any poor girl he sees walking," according to Husband Shuman, whose wife, Mrs. F. Shuman, used to ride with Shuman by agreement of all the principal parties.

"He is a kind, good-natured, kind-hearted, helpful friend to all the world," says Margaret Hamilton, middle-aged nurse, formerly employed in the Shuman household.

And, according to Shuman himself, he is an expert on mending, household and personal; on button sewing, big and little, black and white pearl buttons and trousers buttons included. In fact, Shuman is a man of many titles, but the one he says he likes the best himself is that of high grand family button sewer.

The petition for separate support of Mrs. Ida F. Shuman took on added heat for Clinton's "four hundred," sitting with eager interest in Judge Forbes' court at Worcester, when Mrs. Shuman told of some of the alleged parties, "nightgown" and otherwise, of her husband and three women, Ruth M. Plunkett, Helen Frel and Jeanette Bosquet. To Mrs. Shuman's charges the women mentioned issue emphatic denial.

DENIAL BY MILL GIRL.
Helen Frel, red-headed, nineteen-year-old worker in the Shuman Mills, denied there was any King Copeland and the beggar maid attachment between her and her wealthy employer. The tears trembled in her eyes, as she declared:

"It's just like this—this—that woman is telling about me and her husband. I never danced nor had in the automobile when I was riding with her husband and she says so."

"I never went riding with him, except once or twice he may have taken me back home in the rain. I'm only a poor working girl—just nineteen years old. I don't know how to protect myself, like the wife of a man. I tell the truth—to prove what she says about me is all wrong."

"It's a terrible thing to mention me and her husband, in this way, she says."

Bosquet is the god-daughter of a gentleman whose wife, according to Mrs. Shuman, "made one form" with Shuman in a darkened carriage one night. "Oh, what's the trouble if her husband told her to go to the wife or some other woman riding?" she Bosquet. "I do the same, and I never expect my wife to get jealous of me. It's against my religion to see a woman walking and to let her walk. I always show up and let her go to it."

"She generally does. The woman who ever refused me was one crazy woman. It was a hot day in July, and she wouldn't ride, so I went in and can take a ride with a married man without any regret."

Which Mrs. Shuman denied. "I've got tired of a husband on the installment plan," said she. "Therefore, I made up my mind that, if the other woman wanted him, they could just have him."

FEELS OF LEATHER COATS.
Mrs. Shuman then told about a leather coat her husband had bought for her. "The very next day after I had got mine," said she, "Miss Plunkett appeared in Clinton with the nearly similar, except that hers was longer and of better quality leather. And these two were the only leather coats in Clinton."

Mrs. Shuman is all widely indignation, as she tells of her checked matrimonial career.

But, shamed and most polite and seemingly untroubled, Shuman presently described his matrimonial experience.

"I did like dancing," he explained, "but because I liked to, but because I had to. I can dance with girls' stockings. I can not dance, but I'm pretty good. The trouble with my dancing is that I pull the thread out tight. The stocking is apt to be lumpy when put on the foot. As for button mending, repairing worn pairs in tablecloths, and such, that is the most difficult of all. But when it comes to sewing on a button, nobody can beat me. Here's where I shine."

"I can sew buttons on strings and with artery—soon on the right side of the button. So I do not despair of ever thought, when I started out in life, that I ever could become expert in the sewing. But I have."

Which goes again to prove the truth of the old saying—you never can tell till you try. And as for me at the family sewing game, I have tried very hard."

FIGHTING FITZPATRICK BEATEN IN THE FIRST

Portland, Dec. 10.—Fighting Fitzpatrick of Brooklyn, N. Y., winner of the welterweight title in the International tournament at Bordeaux on July 19, 1920, fell a victim to the Irishman, Jimmy Dunne, of Belfast, last night, when the Maine fighter lost him with a crashing left hook to the jaw.

It was knockout night at the Pines Free A. C. Young contingent of Windham, Me., stopped Dunne, of Belfast, in two rounds and Young Brown dropped Jimmy Dunne in three rounds. Kid Lewis, of Belfast, and Kopy Mays of Lewiston, boxed six rounds to a draw.

LEGION HEAD CALLS FOR WAR UPON IGNORANCE

Indianapolis, Dec. 10.—American men and women were called upon today by Stanford MacNider, commander of the American Legion in that city, to fight against the forces of ignorance, so that the peace will be provided to set free the millions from the bonds of illiteracy.

The statement was issued in regard to American Education Week, Dec. 10-16.

PETROVA'S Important Engagement
—OPENING—
SELWYN THEATRE NEXT MONDAY NIGHT

Fate made Madame Petrova's feminist—a woman standing on her own feet supported by no one, coming to her fate and fortune through her own personal efforts and believing firmly that feminism is education. She is a woman of the future, a woman of the twentieth century, who has more or less bearing upon Madame Petrova's new play "The Peacock"; which comes to the 32-yr. Theatre Monday night, December 12.

Here are some of Madame Petrova's feminist aphorisms: "The only woman who is free is the prostitute." "The only woman who is not a prostitute is the prostitute." "The wife of tomorrow is going to be the prostitute's independent." "For every woman there is a man, but for every man there is no woman." "The world without men and the full content of the woman is more than prostitution." "The average business woman can still become up to the mark existing business conditions, but she gets out of the world, then, she could be more domestic happiness." "The woman is not really independent in the only way to make money is to keep herself all-around." "The woman is not really independent in the only way to make money is to keep herself all-around." "Men are terrible—well, but women have to survive in society. I have to be a woman, I have to be a woman, I have to be a woman, I have to be a woman." "The woman can be said about Men, Petrova's play "The White Peacock," but the management will leave it to the Boston newspapers and the Boston public to make the comment upon the extraordinary play. The play will be presented at the Theatre Monday night, December 12, at 8 o'clock. Prices, Evrs, 30c to $2.50, Wed. and Sat. Matinees, 50c to $2.00.

EDMUND J. MANN, Petrova will hold a reception on the stage after each matinee.

The reception accorded this exquisite photo comedy, by both the public and the critics, at the first showing in New York City, was overwhelming.

The expressions of the critics, which follow, are just the reflection of the opinions of the delighted audience:

"It is by far the best thing Miss Davies has done. Not only is this our own idea, but that of our neighbors as well."—N. Y. Morning Telegraph.

"Miss Davies showed more real ability and more animation than she has ever done before, and the clothes which she wears are a dream of delight."—N. Y. Tribune.

"It is a very captivating production, for at last Miss Davies seems to have found a vehicle that fits her—or that she fits, which is more to the point."—N. Y. Herald.

"Really, it is enticingly beautiful and not to be sniffed at, however your tastes run."—Daily News.

"Marion Davies as the flapper vampire does, we think, the best work of her screen career in this picture."—N. Y. Globe.

It's a Paramount Picture

IF IT'S WORTH A PICTURE YOU'LL FIND IT HERE—DRAMA OR NEWS!

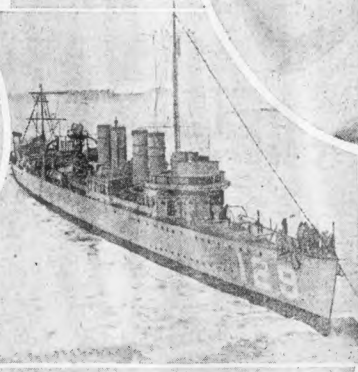

A NICE CUP O' TAY! Thirty-eight, according to some person with an elevated forehead, is the dangerous age in woman. Behold, then, Mary Ryan, centre, at the dangerous age in "Only 38," at the Tremont.

MIDDLE-AGED LOVE! A fierce and moving passion—like wanting as ice cream soda or akin to murdering a bad actor, Laura Hope Crews, and Dudley Diggs in "Mr. Fin Passes By," at the Hollis.

HE DID ME WRONG! Like Little Nell, Mrs. Frances L. Byers of Oakland, Cal., says she wasn't "done right" by her husband, whom she accuses of levelling affection on a man, Prof. W. W. Lyman of the University of California. She wants a divorce. (Int.)

LOOK PLEASANT, PLEASE! Guess again. It isn't a camera, at all. This chap, still on the lookout for stills, found this odd still in Los Angeles broker in 1917 for $4,000,000 in gold. They're seized contraptions from the size you best baby's milk in to attempting to make Oakland, Cal., metropolis of Pacific. He started boxes business all over gain. (United Photo.)

MIRIAM COLLINS in "The Bad Man," at the Plymouth, whose mother was once a favorite of the old Boston Museum players.

THESE LADIES ARE BATHING GIRLS—In Fred Stone's "Tip Top" at the Colonial, the bathing refers to a beach not Saturday night. Anyway, they create some splash in it.

ASK DAD, He Knows! A costly lot of back silk plush, charmingly enhanced with ostrich sprays. The model is Miss Simona D'Herly, the Paris actress. This photo is direct from France and shows one of the smartest creations of the season. Easily copied. (U. U.)

HERO STUFF! Ernst Harnberger, a German sailor, was decorated by British government and presented loving cup for bravery in rescuing shipwrecked crew of the County of Devon in North Atlantic, Feb. 20, 1914. (W. W.)

OH, COME BACK! The Rescué of Padukatti, who is implored by her subjects to return from Cannes, France, where she has been honeymooning since her marriage in 1915. (Int.)

NEPTUNE'S RAGE will send the U. S. S. Destroyer Lone, stranded off Arlio Point, South of San Francisco, into scrap heap. Helpless inside the breakers. Must end days on beach. (Int.)

HERE COMES MY SWEETIE NOW! This chap is not a swain, but a candy vendor of Java. He trots from cane-vill age to another in the Dutch East Indies, selling a peculiar native confection called coco candy, flavored with a crude extract of the coco leaves. Native boys buy it by the hunk and take to their cabins. Wonder if it's sticky? (U. U.)

STELLA M. DIFENBAUGH, secretary to Mandel, House floor leader, holds most responsible position for a woman in lower chamber. (U. U.)

FLIGHTY CHAPS! Even though the Allies persist in restricting airplane building in Germany, they can't stop them from flying kites. Photo shows a new kite, built in the form of a plane, that rises the air waves for blocks with nothing more than a push be start it. (W. W.)

WORK AND LARGER BANK ACCOUNTS

Mills Speeding Up, Those in Lawrence Running Almost 100 Per Cent.

By the Associated Press.
Industrial conditions, particularly in textile lines, cotton and woolen, have improved in New England over last year, according to unofficial reports made public today supplementing the advice to the Federal Employment Service.

Figures gathered by the Lawrence Chamber of Commerce show that the 3,000 textile workers there are prospering.

There has been but one week out in the Lawrence industry of 12 1/2 per cent. A year ago, with one or two exceptions, the mills were running three and four days a week, and in only one employing well over 100 were working at 15 to 20 per cent of capacity, but the metal trades at only 50 per cent.

GEN. HOFFMAN SEES DANGER IN DISARMING

Europe in State of Eternal Unrest, Says Officer of Breast-Losk Fame

By International News Service.
Berlin, Dec. 10.—"Although I highly respect the President Harding's attitude and wish it the best possible result, I consider that the Washington administration is premature in its attempt to disarm the world," said General Hoffman, of "Breast-Losk" fame today.

General Hoffman believes it unsafe to disarm at this time.

General Hoffman was one of the best known officers in the German army during the war. He was a member of the Reichstag and a member of the German League of Nations.

"I believe that the world is in a state of eternal unrest," he said. "The world is in a state of eternal unrest, and it is only by maintaining a strong military force that we can ensure our own safety."

ASK MR. FIX IT

Dear Mr. Fix-It: I have a 1918 model 50 Ford car. It has been running very well, but I have noticed that the engine is making a noise when I start it. Can you tell me what is wrong with it?

Everyone Wants These Features Only GMC Owners Have Them

When you own a GMC you profit by the experience, the resources and the national service of one of the great leaders in the industry.

And, in addition, you profit from these GMC features far in advance of the times: Removable Cylinder Walls, Removable Valve Lifter Assemblies, Dual Cooling, Superheated Carburetor, Centrifugal Fly-ball Governor and Special Process Connecting Rod Bearing.

It is not enough to know what these improvements are nor what they do for others—what they will do for you is the important thing.

Any GMC dealer will gladly explain their technical details—any GMC owner will proudly tell you of their practical advantages—how they increase ability to give service, and at the same time show very real savings by the mile, day and year.

Let your GMC dealer tell you of the recent price reduction of $500 on the K-16 one ton truck and substantial reductions throughout the entire line from 3/4 to 5 ton capacity which give you these greater advancements at prices seldom equaled.

Then, you will surely regard GMC trucks as the soundest investment you can possibly make.

FRIEDMAN-HERMAN BOUT MOVIES BANNED BY FANEUIL CLUB

By JACK CONWAY

Boston fans are anxiously looking forward to a boxing night when Pete Herman, former world's heavyweight champion, and Abe Friedman, New England titleholder, meet in a four-round quarter at the Faneuil A. C. show at Mechanics Building.

Herman is the red head here as a result of his fight with Young Man. The latter granted the decision to Herman. Friedman, a former world champion, is a black man. He is a former world champion and has been fighting for many years. He is a former world champion and has been fighting for many years. He is a former world champion and has been fighting for many years.

Movie picture men are playing considerable interest in the meeting between Friedman and Herman. The effort was made to secure the movie picture rights for the match. A deal was made at Mechanics Building and it was discovered that the strong lights would interfere with the view of the spectators. It was then decided not to permit any movie picture men to be present.

Ladd Sherman and Paul Thorne have signed articles for a four-round bout to be staged at Mechanics Building on December 20, under the direction of the Amateur A. C. Matchmaker Alex McLean, of the

Stocks Close Strong in an Active New York Market: Sterling Exchange Higher

We are running in an era of optimism. The world is full of some men and has many others. Those who are today strong find those who are weak willing to sell their property—land, stock, bonds, or otherwise—at attractive terms. The commission given on the sale of the tobacco industry, the chemical industry, railway building, and a host of other "values," it is today a case of "them that have the gold are the making."

A wealthy having a wife and three children complains that he is too busy to do anything but to see to it that his property is well taken care of. He is not just this sort of thing that breeds in the mind of the existing economic order.

Liberty bonds have risen so rapidly that a reaction would be expected. It is entirely possible that an appreciable part of the recent advance may be lost in the next few weeks. If such a reaction does occur, holders would not be harmed and will sell. If Secretary Mellon's advocacy of a maximum limit on the rate of interest, 5 per cent, should be accepted by Congress, the situation with these government bonds and this might have a bearing on the market.

It is not just this sort of thing that breeds in the mind of the existing economic order. It is not just this sort of thing that breeds in the mind of the existing economic order. It is not just this sort of thing that breeds in the mind of the existing economic order.

Here is a pointer for executives of companies doing business in the country. A very bright young man located in certain Western States discovered that several very large and well-known American corporations had neglected to comply with that state's law calling upon corporations to submit to the constitution of the State and to file certified copies of their articles of incorporation and to proceed to incorporate companies with offices in that State. He was not alone in this. He discovered that other companies had been formed under the laws of that State and that his company was not.

Word has been quietly passed that bank companies will pay bonuses this Christmas will pay the same for 1921. Many dividends will be paid in the form of stock. One of the very largest of New York's financial institutions has decided to distribute a bonus of $100,000 to its stockholders.

Some hard-headed men of affairs are wondering if the salivators who have won big money for their clients in the stock market have any right to the appreciation of the difficulties which will confront them when in 1922 the task of making the government of the Irish Free State a going concern. Governments are notorious borrowers. The terms exacted from governments, which, moreover, make ends meet are usually very severe. There is much speculation as to how the Irish Free government will fare when it seeks to float large loans. The Irish Free State's credit will rank with the most highly influenced by the measure of success attained by those who will have the job of getting the administration of the Irish Free State away.

The much-discussed steel merger has not yet been accomplished. It is not yet so certain that "there's a nip" in the air. A tip on stocks: Never buy stocks offered by brokers unknown to you who call you up on the telephone and implore you to become rich by purchasing the "glittering security" they have for you.

"We'll probably feel more like buying—and better able to buy—Christmas presents this time next year."
